Metcalf Hall will be razed during the summer of 1965, "opening the door" to the campus mall.

For 106 years Adrian College has used the buildings appearing on front campus. But this year marks the end of an era of the ivy-covered walls. By the end of the summer Metcalf and South Halls will be razed. At the east end of the campus mall, where the present South Hall stands, there will be a carillon tower complementing the spiral of the college chapel, gracing the west end of the mall. To many alumni, these old buildings hold many memories. To help retain the atmosphere of the grand old college, officials have agreed to renovate North Hall within the next two years and retain it for a campus landmark.

This aerial view of Adrian College, taken in 1946, portrays the vast expansion program the College has undergone in the past several years.

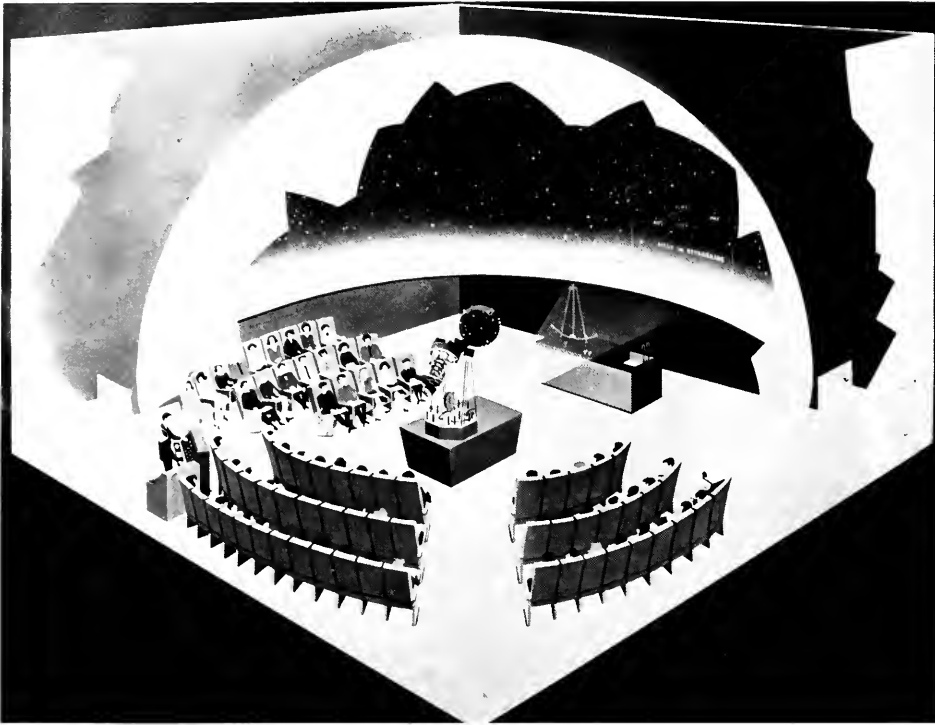

South Hall is also scheduled to be razed during the summer of 1965 to make room for the Herrick Tower.

There are no present plans to raze Downs Hall.

Within the next two years, North Hall will be renovated and remain as a historic landmark. It will then be the oldest building on campus, reminding students of the rich heritage handed down to them since the founding of the College in 1859.

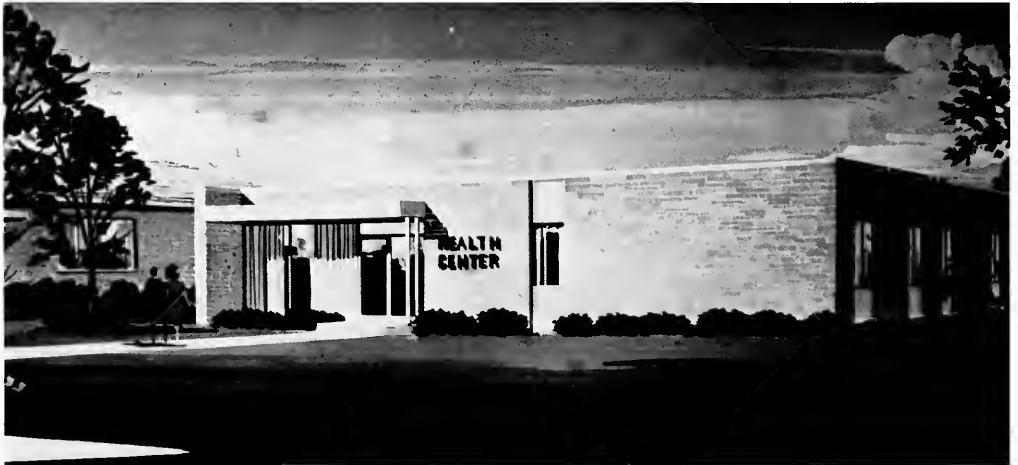

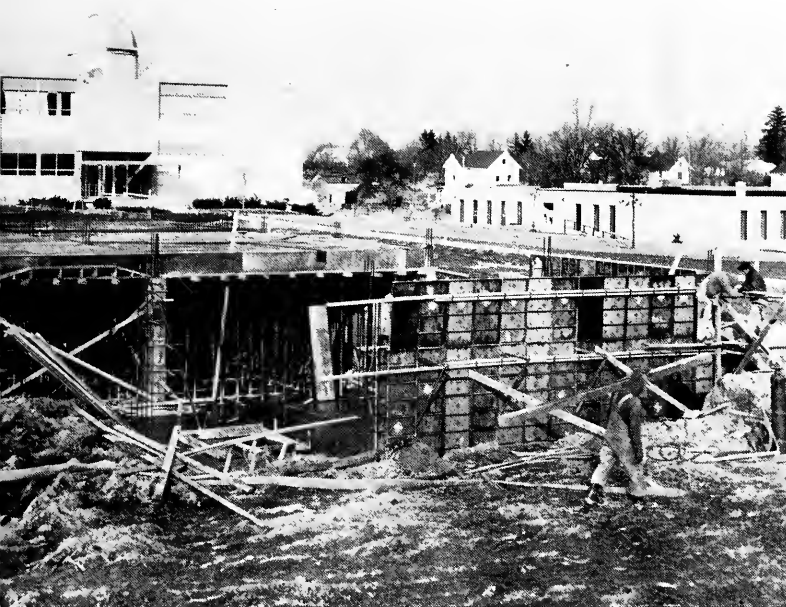

The astronomy department grew with an anonymous gift of a planetarium, to be attached to Peelle Hall.

May 14 saw the ground breaking for the long-awaited health center, to be built between Rush Union and Dawson Auditorium at a cost of $100,000.

The ground breaking for Jones Hall was held on Homecoming Day. Construction began soon thereafter and completion was set for September, 1965. It will house classrooms and offices for the sciences.

Adrian's first sorority housing became a reality with the ground breaking for the $550,000 sorority complex in April. The complex will house the four sororities, each having their own lounge and study areas.

Dr. Spencer officially opened Mahan Hall, named for Dr. Asa Mahan, founder of the College. The three floor building houses the Humanities Division.

The "Cinderella College of the Middle-west" received its name for its rapid growth. In the past ten years, 21 buildings have been constructed to serve the student body. The past year at Adrian College two buildings were dedicated and ground was broken for several more. Cargo Hall was dedicated in honor of Mrs. Ruth Cargo, and in February, Mahan Hall was officially opened. Construction was also begun on the sorority complex costing $550,000.00. Ground was broken for a new health center and an announcement was made that the College would receive a planetarium, a carillon tower and a new maintenance facility.

As a tribute to its great philanthropist, Ray M. Herrick, the College will soon have a beautiful Carillon Tower. Funds for the $70,000 Herrick Tower were raised from alumni and friends of the College. It should be completed by October on the present site of South Hall at the east end of the mall.

Two houses north of Williams Street bent under the forceful grip of the crane, making room for a $550,000 sorority complex.

Bishop Straughn greeted visitors at the dedication of the Chapel.

The wife and sons of the donor, Allen L. Goldsmith, broke the ground for the new $100,000 health center.

*I watched them tearing a building down
A gang of men in a busy town.
With a ho heave ho and lusty yell
They swung a beam and the side wall fell.*

I asked the foreman, "Are these men as skilled as the men you would hire, if you had to build?"

He gave a hearty laugh and said, "No, indeed, for I can easily wreck in a day or two, what builders have taken years to do."

*And I thought to myself as I went my way
Which of the roles will I try to play?
Will I be a builder who works with care measuring life by the rule and square or will I go about town content with the labors of tearing down?*

Sorority members admired their future home at the ground breaking.

A crowd was present at the health center ground breaking.

Cargo Hall was used for the first time at the opening of the 1964-65 school year.

Dean Sanford and Mrs. Herrick turned the spade.

President Dawson welcomed all new freshmen.

In a day he was transformed from a senior to a freshman.

This is how a student entering Adrian College feels as he anxiously embarks on his college career. To get him off on the right foot, a number of activities were arranged for the freshmen during Orientation Week. It commenced with the President's Convocation in Dawson Auditorium. Many parents wanted to pay tuition, so they waited in the comfort of the Administration Building. The day was followed by testing, counseling, and of course, parties and get-togethers. With new faces to meet, it did not take long to meet and eventually know most of the student body.

Bev Good, a transfer student, is greeted by the administrative heads following the President's Convocation.

Go to the end of the line, please.

After the welcome to students, it was a time to write checks.

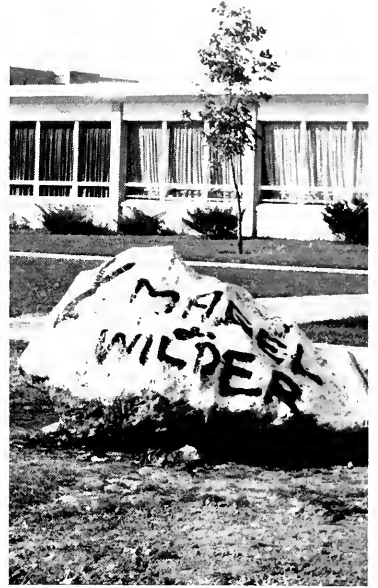

What happened to the rock?

For a number of years the rock served as a place to take out a grudge, to blow your horn, or to be devilish by painting and repainting it. However, painting the rock was not enough. One night a number of ambitious underclassmen decided to dig up the rock. Then they tried to burn it. Finally someone decided to take it to the Dean of Men's yard. In the end the rock was buried. After the extra dirt was hauled away, it looked as if it vanished. Is the rock really dead? Or will a new class of freshmen find it and restore it to its original condition? That remains to be seen.

Energetic freshmen frequently painted the traditionally "Greek" rock.

The small rock proved to be much larger.

The rock was dug up, burned, and suddenly one night it disappeared.

Although Saga Food Service was forced to feed outside, it was a well received picnic.

Spring is busting out all over, the campus that is.

Footlong hot dogs were served as the main dish.

Stevens said, Beat Albion, everyone said, Beat Albion, but it didn't do any good as the Britons defeated the Bulldogs in the "Annual Football Bust."

Campus life at Adrian College is a variety of events that contribute to the total development of a student. Campus life is study, first and foremost, but one would say that campus is a home away from home and a launching pad to the future. It has all types of weather, like the big snow, that will be long remembered by students this year. Spring was a welcome relief, bringing picnics and campus strolls. This was the year for new dances. It is a relief to know that the "round dance" is still in style. Campus life includes dormitory life with organized parties and the nightly popcorn blast. Campus life is what one makes it.

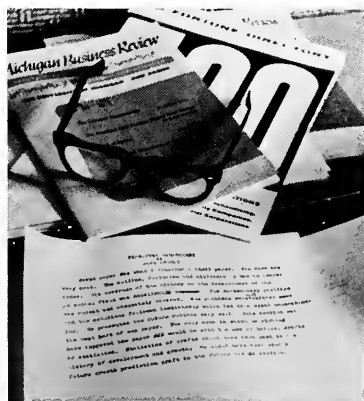

Adrian fraternity men studied hard and won a national award.

To many students this was the year of the "Big Snow" but its beauty accented the Chapel.

Somewhere under that "stuff" there is a walk.

College life is reports, and more reports.

Study breaks in the dormitories usually consisted of a big batch of popcorn and a bottle of pop.

Dormitory lounges were frequently used for parties.

Campus men wait in the Union for sorority bids to be announced.

Gregg Haisley was chef in his multi-purpose dormitory room.

The chef makes sure he gets fed.

But dear, there are other dances besides the jerk.

The year 1965 was marked with the pony, fruge, freddie, jerk and the monkey.

held Dawson Auditor. on Apr. 10 before a standing-room-only crowd of 1,400 students, faculty and friends of the college. While everyone cheered for their favorite group, a select panel of judges evaluated the efforts of seven groups who participated in this annual event. Competition was keen, but Chi Omega sorority captured both chorus and the women's quartet trophies. Having won the chorus trophy for three consecutive years, Chi Omega retired the two foot trophy. Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity captured the men's chorus and quartet competition. Dr. Dawson announced that this year's All College Sing was dedicated to Dr. James Spencer, retiring chairman of the Music Department. The number selected to honor Dr. Spencer, was "One World" composed by him in 1944. Wesley Fellowship sang the song to honor the 44 year college musician.

A beautiful rendition of a Civil War Medley ends in victory for the Chi Omega sorority.

An excellent arrangement of "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor", aided the SAE's capture of the chorus award.

Many thundering yells of triumph indicated the tremendous elation felt by the SAE's as they received the coveted trophy.

A packed house enjoyed seeing and hearing youth performing, for an evening of good music.

Screaming with delight the Chi-O's rush to congratulate one another, upon their victory.

Culture on the campus was at the disposal of every student during this past year. In addition to the traditional activities of the Adrian College Theater, band concerts, choral festivals, etc., there were a number of visiting lecturers who were entertaining as well as educational. Five outstanding artists were invited to the campus to compose the Celebrity Series. These included Dr. Alexander Schreiner at the organ in the chapel; the duo-piano team of Ferrante and Teicher, the Mata & Hari dance team, and the Chicago Little Symphony. To help the students to become aware of the world around them, the World Travel Series presented three films on the Western Hemisphere. Lambda Iota Tau and Wesley Fellowship also presented their film series.

Ferrante and Teicher signed autographs following their stupendous concert in Dawson Auditorium.

Dr. Schreiner presented a concert on the chapel organ.

Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt were a major Celebrity Series attraction.

Effective lighting for the duo-piano team added color to their superb performance.

The Beauty of Homecoming

President Dawson had the honor of crowning the queen.

Queen Nancy and her court was the center of attraction.

Congratulations were in style for queen Nancy.

Homecoming 1964 centered on the theme "Roaring 20's" and saw 17 organizations compete for top honors in the campus display contest. Jarvis Hall and Jones Hall captured the two dormitory display divisions. Chi Omega won the sorority competition. For the fourth straight year, Alpha Tau Omega won in their division. They also walked off with the best over-all campus award. During half-time activities of the Adrian and Hope football game, Nancy Curry was crowned queen by President Dawson. Her court included; Beth Emrick, Carol Sullins, Carol Hicks and Carol de'Lhorbe. The afternoon game ended in a three to nothing decision resulting from a field goal by Bob Butz. At the traditional homecoming dance, Nancy and her court reigned as Tony Martell and his orchestra supplied the music.

Hope was hung in effigy by the Student Government.

It took a lot of hot air to inflate the balloons used by freshmen to decorate the gym for the dance.

Adrian could have used Herman Munster on the field.

Alpha Tau Omega won the best fraternity award and the over-all campus display award with "Adrian Gives Hope 23 Skidoo."

Having one's ID card stamped is primary to voting in all Student Government elections.

Ballot forms are given out to all students interested in their campus government.

An evening of listening to the returns with Chet and David.

This was the year for campus government to shine, for it was the year of the national election. The Student Government held their traditional homecoming elections, student officers, and class elections. A mock national election was sponsored by the College World. The young Republicans and the young Democrats were at odds throughout the national campaign. However, they put aside these differences and joined for election night returns in Peelle Hall of Science.

Hoffman and Wilcox are still friends following the election.

Adrian College students take time out of their busy schedule to show the world that they are human in the finer things of life.

Feeding style was changed to buffet to accommodate the crowd.

The greens were hung during the traditional event opening the Christmas season.

Christmas at Adrian College starts with the annual Hanging of the Greens dinner. For the first time the dinner was buffet style instead of a waited meal. After the dinner, Dave Smith led the students, faculty, and guests in Christmas carols. Mrs. Pellowe was honored by the student body on her retirement with a gift certificate from a local merchant. The assembly adjourned to the east end of the campus for the birth of a new campus tradition Here Dr. Dawson spoke a few well chosen words and threw the switch which lighted a large Christmas tree. Nearly a thousand caroling voices climaxed the festive occasion which set the wheels of Christmas on campus into motion.

Hanging of the Greens has long been a campus tradition originated by Mrs. Pellowe in the forties.

Standing in the snow, students expanded the tradition for the first time this year by adding a tree lighting ceremony.

Dr. Dawson threw the switch that lit the tree.

Mrs. Pellowe was honored with a gift certificate from the College.

Right: Adrian College students were among the volunteers who helped to clean up the area following the tornado. They also helped the Red Cross in returning things to order.

Far Right: The force of the tornado leveled churches, homes, and schools throughout the county.

The lives of college students were influenced by world affairs this past year. Close to every student was the racial situation in Selma and Birmingham. Winston Churchill died on January 24, and his funeral was viewed around the world via Telstar. Nikita Khrushchev was removed from his position as Premier and was replaced by his two proteges, Brezhnev and Kosygin. His expulsion had an air of mystery and only time will erase what he did. The Vietnam story made the newspapers daily and by the time school was out, it was the boiling pot of southeast Asia. Adrian College students will remember the Palm Sunday tornadoes and the clean up efforts which followed. During the fall the students rolled up their sleeves to donate blood, which the Red Cross used during the tornado. The United States made two Gemini space flights, as did Russia. This was the year that two men made their stroll in space. White and McDivitt took the spotlight for the U.S. space flight. This year saw Indonesia withdraw from the United Nations. L. B. Johnson, who won the election in a landslide over Barry Goldwater, had his hands full of turmoil throughout the world. A hot spot in this hemisphere was Santo Domingo, which saw blood spilled throughout the city. There were many other news makers, too numerous to mention here.

Graduates numbering 180 processed after the faculty to the Auditorium for their Commencement Exercises.

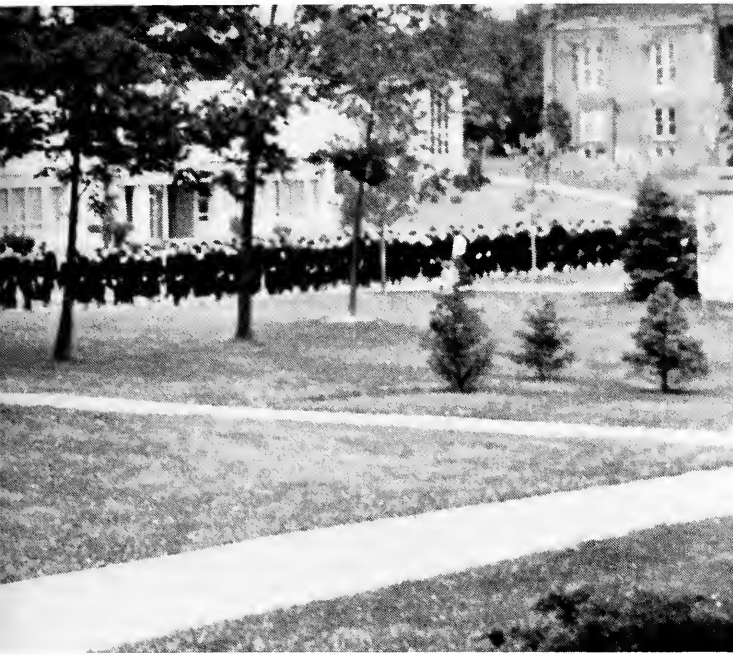

The new Cane Ceremony was held in Dawson Auditorium.

Dr. John Hannah of Michigan State delivered the address.

Following the exercises it was time for pictures.

The 120th Commencement activity at Adrian saw Dr. John H.

Hanna, President of Michigan State University, spoke to 177 graduates on the topic "To Live Or To Die." After the graduates received their diplomas, the College conferred four honorary degrees. The honorary degree holders included the Rev. Jessie R. DeWitt, Rev. Arthur A. Jane, Amos R. Anderson and professor James K. Pollock. The traditional Cane Ceremony was conducted for the first time in Dawson Auditorium. The College was prompted to move the ceremony to Dawson to conserve time and to avoid the elements. "You Can't Go Home Again" was the topic of the Baccalaureate Ceremony by Dr. Hoover Rupert. This service was conducted in the Adrian College Chapel which saw a capacity crowd.

May 29. The banquet served to recognize the achievements made by the College since 1955. Three staff members were recognized for their retirement. They included Miss Mary Teusink, Dr. James Spencer and Anna Smith. The banquet served a dual purpose and honored those community leaders who made this unprecedented development a reality. Eleven persons were given citations for their contribution. Mr. Howard White, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented a check in the amount of $10,723. to Dr. John H. Dawson, president, to be used as the President's Contingency Fund, that will allow him to purchase much needed items for the College. Mr. Ed. Pellowe, Director of Financial Development, presented $25,000 worth of stock to the president to kick off another decade of development. The stock will be used to start the Leila Rorick Foster Scholarship Fund.

ACADEMICS

The primary objective of every college student should be to get the best possible education for his money. Over the four year period at Adrian, a student can invest as much as $8,000.00 that will help him find his place in life. This investment will return a bountiful supply of happiness and self-satisfaction. At the disposal of every student is a broad general education. If the student would avail and apply himself fully, he would be ready to enter the labor market following graduation, and start reaping his rewards. Education may take many forms, and it is hard to pinpoint specifics when it comes to portraying highlights. Therefore, the MOUND staff will not try to be specific: instead a gleaning of pictures were selected and printed, depicting only a few of the many areas of study. It is recognized that this presentation takes into account that there are five major divisions at Adrian including: Humanities, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Religion, Philosophy and Psychology, and Teacher Education. Highlights and sidelights in this section include an in depth study of Astronomy, Theater, an Art major in Education and a story of facilities and academic rewards.

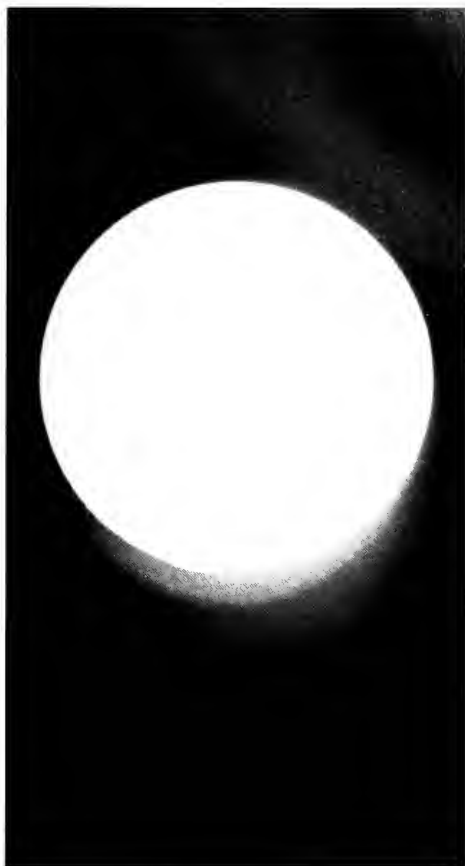

In our fast moving world higher education is becoming more important than ever.

Man's conquest for space has stimulated a new interest among Adrian College to learn what lies beyond the earth's atmosphere. To help explore the celestial bodies the College has expanded its Astronomy Department. A devoted astronomer, Mr. Crusinberry spent many evening hours with students in the Robinson Observatory, a gift from Mr. Herbert Robinson, a local industrialist. It was also announced this year that the Department would be further extended to include a fully equipped planetarium. It will now be possible to study the stars during all kinds of weather. If everything goes according to plan, the planetarium should be ready for use in September.

The door of Mr. Crusinberry's office was always open to students seeking after class help.

The Adrian College Players were in an academic spotlight this year. Throughout the year, three major productions were presented. Their productions included Parent's Weekend presentation of the "Girls of 509". To delight the children "Christmas Carol" was presented. Their spring production was the classic presentation of "The Miracle Worker". As part of the student training, advance theatre students were given an opportunity to direct a one act play.

Adrian College graduated

it's first art major this year.

Anne Priestley was honored to be the first one. When asked what she was going to do with her degree, Anne said she would be an Art Supervisor in an elementary school; which means that she will instruct the teachers how to teach art. She attributed her interest in art at Adrian to the expansion of the department and the recent completion of Mahan Hall. This year a number of art students designed the art for several college publications and concluded the year with an elaborate art show in the Rush Union.

In an educational setting study can be a chore. However, during the past year the dedication of Mahan Hall lifted the spirits of those who studied in the Humanities. In this new addition one will find some of the finest facilities of any college of comparable size. It was surprising to note the changed attitude of students and faculty, when they moved from buildings on front campus to the comfortable new building.

Mahan Hall was opened for use during second semester.

Next year's Alpha Chi officers were also inducted at the ceremony held in Ritchie Hall.

One of the last major events of the college year is honors program, designed to give recognition to those students who have achieved superior academic standings. Initiated into Alpha Chi is limited to the top ten percent of the junior and senior class. At the impressive candlelight ceremony, these members accept the challenge, which is their motto, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free". This year five seniors and eight juniors were initiated into Alpha Chi. This page is devoted to recognizing all students who received awards for academic achievement during the past year.

The Bulldog football team found that early season injuries and too many mistakes proved more than they could overcome. The offense just could not get started; this was due in part to not finding a quarterback until midway in the season. Bob Butz's field goal against Hope in the closing seconds, and the interception of five Dutchman passes, gave Adrian their first win of the season before a jubilant Homecoming crowd of over 3,000. Adrian was to taste defeat under Alma and Kalamazoo but an explosive offense and an alert defense teamed together to give Adrian a welcome win to close out the 1964 season against Bluffton. In the last gridiron contest, quarterback, Roger Davidson, completed 12 of 19 passes and sneaked over for the final score. This year's Most Valuable Player award went to Roger Davidson for his outstanding contribution to the squad. All-League selections went to Roger Davidson, at a defensive linebacker position. This was the second year that Jim Wilkin was elected to the All-League team.

All home games were played in Maple Stadium as the college awaits the completion of a new stadium. Another highlight of this year's football season was the annual Detroit Layman's Football Bust. This event takes place each year as the two Methodist colleges in Michigan, Adrian and Albion, clash for control of the pigskin. Over 1300 Methodist laymen and youth saw the Bulldog's fruitless attempts as the scoreboard read 36-0 in favor of Albion as the final whistle blew.

Although the Adrian basketball team broke even for the 1964-65 season with an overall total of ten wins and ten losses and seven wins and five losses in MIAA contests, this season was a memorable one as far as school records were concerned. A per game average of 85.9 points broke a record established in 1954-55, while the 122 points scored in the single game against Alma broke a school and MIAA record. The Alma game also saw records of 75 rebounds and 52 field goals in one game established. The game with Adrian's rival Albion went into four overtimes, another record, before Adrian was able to win 109-105. This 214 total points scored broke still another record.

Adrian was in the MIAA Conference race all the way, but an 89-88 defeat by Hope late in the season gave Hope the conference championship and Adrian a third place spot with Albion.

Senior, Dick Seagert, a four year letterman, was Adrian's leading scorer with a total of 338 points. Dick was elected the team's Most Valuable Player and was selected to the All-MIAA first team.

The Wrestling Team's big-disappointment this year was the number of injuries to all of the key men late in the season. Adrian started the season with three victories in a row. The first loss came at the hands of Baldwin Wallace, but that bout had its good point. This was the 4-1 win by Vic Ringkvist over last year's Ohio Conference Champion. Adrian was on the losing end until they defeated Hope 26-7. The biggest disappointment came when the team was kept from going to the eighth team Lake Forest Tournament in Chicago by the "great snow" fall. Their frustration was further heightened when they learned that Kalamazoo, with whom they had split a dual meet, had won the title. Jack Vivian was elected the captain of the team and the Most Valuable Wrestler title went to Vic Ringkvist.

"Round and round they go and where they stop only the wrestler knows."

The baseball team finished a mediocre season by posting an 8-12 record. They finished 5-7 in the MIAA. This was good enough to finish in seventh place. The league race was close all the way said coach Chappy Marvin who coached the team for the first time this year. With three games to play, the Bulldogs were 5-4 and needed to win a game from Olivet and sweep the double header from Alma to take a share of the title. But, as the story went, the needed wins ended in defeats and gave the team a last place finish.

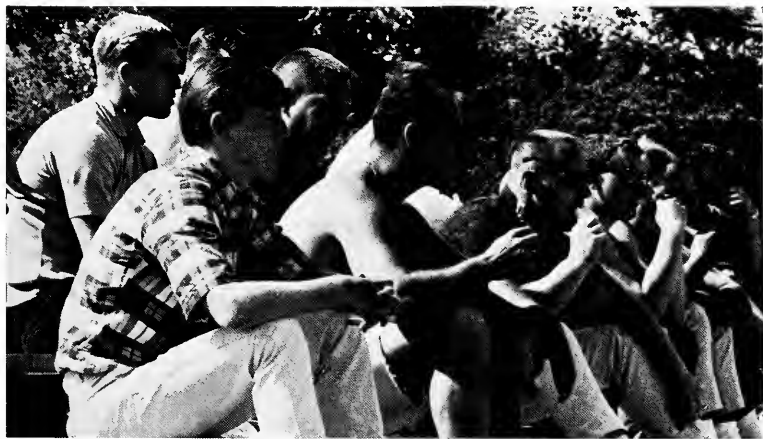

Again this season, the team played all of their double headers home ball games on the diamond at Riverside Park. Here the team played into extra innings several games but had trouble winning the games.

They played five extra innings games and could only win one of them.

Post seasons honors went to Dick Goodrich who was voted honorary captain. He also won the President's Trophy, the second year that it has been presented. Harvey Krupnick was voted the Most Valuable Player, 1966 Captain and first team outfielder on the MIAA Team. Perry Foor was named MIAA first baseman first team and Steve Page was named second team MIAA pitcher.

The tennis team experienced a bouncing season this year; ended up in last place in the MIAA. Coach Arbaugh said at the close of the season that a losing season creates a burning desire in the minds of the team members and the coach to do better. The only victory of the season was against Defiance. Nine students reported for practice and eight of them lettered. The coach tried hard to find a winning combination for the doubles and ended with senior Dave McKelvey and freshman Terry Dennison sharing the number one set. These two men were also number one and two in the singles. They were followed by the Chase brothers who filled the bill for the number two set of doubles. McKelvey captured top honors among his teammates and was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy. Coach Arbaugh said that although we have one of the finest tennis facilities in the league it takes year-round practice to come up with a winning tennis team.

What can one say about a golf team which started a new record setting attempt (a losing record, that is)? But seriously, said Coach Bob Gillis, the boys put their heart into the game. Steve Dhondt, who was the captain, was named Most Valuable Player at the Spring Sports Banquet. The faculty members cannot talk about golf because the varsity men captured the annual "Golden-Ball Trophy" from them. The Lewanee Country Club was the site for all home matches which saw the season end with no wins, ten losses, and one tied match.

Injuries topped the list of "excuses" for a losing track season said coach Jay Flanagan. At one time during the season he said that ten of the 26 member squad were out of action. Despite what looks like a bad season there were some outstanding participants. For example, Hank Lacy set a new school record in pole vaulting with a

Each student who enters Adrian College must enroll in some phase of the athletic program. This past year a new coeducational physical education program was initiated on the campus which now makes physical education more attractive to both men and women. In many respects it is as enjoyable as the famous intramural program.

Up to 70 percent of the student body participates in some form of the diversified IM program. With the great number of students participating in the program, the services of four student field supervisors, who conduct the program six days a week, throughout the school year, had to be enlisted. Any group who would like to organize a team and enter the competition may do so.

The most popular sport during 1964-1965 was basketball which attracted 30 different teams. Each person who enters one or more of the sports is eligible to become the Outstanding IM Athlete. He is selected on a point system. Dick Kunzi was selected for that honor this year. Teams also have a contest for the IM Team of the Year and SAE captured the award this year by a margin of only two points.

Women too are offered a wide and varied program designed on the same format as the men's program.

Through the years the IM program has kept pace with the campus expansion. One can only guess where the program will go in the future. But, there is one thing for sure, it will continue to offer a program tailored to student interests.

ORGANIZATIONS

The paddles frequently change position.

In a Liberal Arts

Institution one of the primary objectives is to give all students a broad, general education. A part of this education is social development and the capacity for becoming community leaders. At Adrian, a member of organizations have been established to help fulfill the varied interest of the student population. Participation in these organizations will help achieve an objective of the college.

The Adrian College Mound is designed to graphically portray the accomplishments of these organizations in action. This section of the yearbook serves as a showcase for the many activities of the college and organizations. Here we pursue together the best of these groups, and present them as reminders of the importance of organizations to our socialization process and the educational endeavor. This showcase is presented to remind ourselves and our posterity of the 1964-1965 college year.

The Student Government strives for full student participation in elections.

Many civic-minded students spent election night in Peele Hall awaiting the final results.

The Student Government was subject to much criticism during the past year. However, it remains that the student government assisted as the cementing agent in holding all student organizations tightly knit. It is the purpose of the student government to coordinate the activities of all recognized campus organizations. It is primarily responsible to coordinate the activities at Homecoming, All College Sing, and student elections. In the May 4th issue of the College World, a number of students registered their views on the student government as it exists. Some students said that "... the student government was overly criticized," by students, faculty and the administration. It remains, however, that the government on the college campus rests in the hands of the executive committee, headed by Dave Smith, who assumed his post after the resignation of the first female president in the history of the College, Kay Smith. The Adrian College student government hosted the Michigan Association of Student Government convention on Saturday, May 15, 1965. During that weekend, representatives from other colleges throughout the state, participated in a variety of activities.

Men's Residence Council is the counterpart of the Association of Women Students. That is to say, it is the governing body of the men's residences on the campus. It is the voice of the Men's Resident Halls to the student government. Their primary objective is to enforce study hours and to legislate rules, and regulations governing all men on campus. Under the guidance of Dean Meadows, the Men's Residence Council served to unify the men into a strong body. Among their major activities, the men conducted an inter-resident ping-pong tournament, to which trophies were presented.

Thorpe, C. Rinehart, D. Langsdale, R. Stone, B. Stahl,

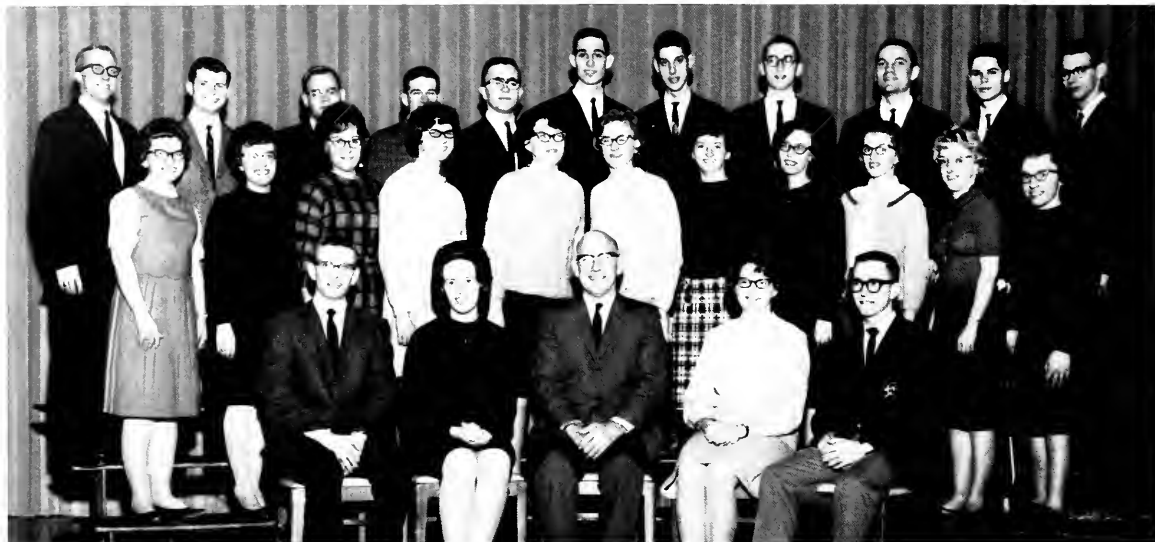

The Association of Women Students is somewhat like the high chamber of government consisting of a judicial board and an executive board. Through these two bodies, policies and procedures for all women students are made. The executive board consists of officers, mentors, fire marshals, and town representatives. The judicial board upholds the rules and regulations held forth by the executive council.

The Association of Women Student's contribution to the showcase is an annual event called the Big-Little Sister Tea. Through this social event, freshman students have an opportunity to become acquainted with the upper classmen, and are thereby encouraged to consult them for advice. AWS also encourages and assists with dormitory Christmas parties and sponsored the first annual "Banquet of Lights." In addition, they hold an annual Senior Recognition Banquet.

This committee, also, began preliminary planning for new student handbook for Men's Resident Halls. They conducted special social events with WRA and supported student government projects. This year MRC was responsible for securing a pool table for every men's dormitory.

Wesley Fellowship is a

Methodist affiliated organization which has been serving the campus with a number of entertaining and educational programs. For the past several years Wesley has continued a film series on a non-profit basis in an attempt to provide additional on-campus entertainment. Among their social activities were a hayride and Halloween party and a spring picnic at which their officers were installed. Wesley has helped to reconstruct the Homer K. Powell Memorial Chapel in North Hall. Meetings of Wesley include speakers, films, round table discussions and special music. During the Christmas season, Wesley sponsored traditional All College Christmas Carol Sing and blending their voices at the ALL COLLEGE SING to help serve as entertainment as a dedication to Dr. James Spencer. Wesley is also active in the Michigan Methodist Student Movement Organization and this past year four Adrian College students attended the Methodist Student Movement Meeting in Lincoln, Nebraska at the Quadrennial Conference.

Religion Life Council is a representative body made of one person from each Greek service and religious organization on campus. During the 1964-1965 school year, the council actively participated and made their contribution to the Adrian College showcase. They assisted with Advent and Lenten Vesper services, and were instrumental in publishing a daily devotional book for Lent which included articles written by students and faculty.

Their major project for the year was the sponsoring of the Religion in Life Week, March 14-19. Throughout the week their topic, "He, Myself and God," was emphasized. The owner of Studio South made available his theater for the showing of "The Robe," at the nominal cost of 15 cents per person. In the Spring, Religion Life Council held a banquet honoring graduating seniors who were going into church related vocations.

Major Cole represents another tradition on the Adrian College campus and offers an outlet for preministerial students to practice leadership. The highlight of the 1964-65 school year for Major Cole was a series of meetings held in October and November when they invited a fundamentalist, an orthodox and liberal person to speak on their belief relevant to faith. Following individual presentations each of these men came together in a panel discussion which was moderated by Dr. Emrick. The group also conducted a chapel service just prior to Easter vacation. This gave a number of the members an opportunity to speak before the student body. Outside these two major functions the club held regular meetings under the advisorship of Dr. MacNaughton. Major Cole was named for the famous Major James H. Cole, who was especially interested in those students who were preparing for the ministry.

Women students on campus are eligible for membership in this organization which provides fellowship, inspiration, educational and worthwhile experiences in Christian living. In 1964-65, Alpha Delta Chi sponsored their annual Big-Little Sister Weekend. They, too, sponsored a senior breakfast and a Christmas party sponsored with Major Cole.

The Adrian College Choir

has found a new rehearsal place—in the Adrian College Chapel. The choir under the directorship of Dr. James Spencer has found a place in the religious program on campus. The choir used their voices with the Methodist Church Choir at the dedicatory service on September 20 and in the annual Community Christmas Concert. They presented music for a special Sunday morning worship service on March 28—the 126th anniversary of Adrian College.

The Adrian College Band,

under the able directorship of Mr. Jones, came out of the dark this year to put the band before the public in an image, not recently seen on the campus. Through the efforts of Mr. Jones, the Bulldog Marching Band took to the football field for the first time and displayed interesting and resounding music for the spectators at several football games. Following the football season, the band moved into Dawson Auditorium, where it changed styles and became the Adrian Symphonic Band, which demonstrated the versatility of the director and the musicians. This band presented two concerts in Dawson Auditorium and organized several ensembles. Mr. Jones has great plans for the Adrian College Symphonic Band; as he hopes to increase the number and caliber of its performances. Not all the credit should go to the director, because the music is the product of willing students, who may participate for either credit or extracurricular recognition. With the addition of Mahan Hall the band has found its new home. However, most of the rehearsals are conducted in Dawson Auditorium.

For the first time in several years the Bulldog Marching Band entertained on the gridiron.

The Symphonic Band rehearsals were held in Dawson Auditorium.

Usher Corps members

represent the first line of public relations for the college, as they set about their duties in assisting patrons of Dawson Auditorium. Their primary objective is to serve the college and gain a richer understanding of the theater arts. In addition to the numerous college sponsored programs, the Usher Corps assists with productions sponsored by the Adrian College Players, the Community Concert and many special activities, coming to the campus. Through their handling of the auditorium patrons, they are able to create a receptive attitude in the minds of the patrons, thus "setting the stage" for the concert or productions.

At the request of President Dawson, a second Usher Corps was organized in September to serve as the Chapel Usher Corps. This club is an all male organization and they carry many of the responsibilities and obligations of the Auditorium Usher Corps. In both organizations membership is open to any student with a desire to serve the college.

Pi Delta Phi is the National French honorary fraternity. Adrian has one of the many chapters found in the U.S., Alpha Nu. Founded at Adrian by Dr. Hope Lowry, it includes residents of Adrian as well as college students. Student members are selected from those demonstrating superior work in advanced French courses having at least a "B" average in all studies and a high standard of character. Under the supervision of Mr. John Talayco, meetings are held at various places including the homes of alumni in Adrian. Each year the chapter holds a "Fete de Rois" which is a banquet celebrating the feast of the kings.

Circle K is an International service club found on college campuses throughout the United States and the World. It aligns itself with views of Kiwanis International, which is a national adult men's service organization. On the Adrian campus it is open to all male students. Among its service projects, Circle K sponsors benefit dances and fund raising projects to secure money, which will be used to assist orphans and underprivileged children. The past year Circle K was not as active on the college campus as the club has been in previous years. However, they did maintain their identity in assisting the March of Dimes Drive. Some of the members, on their own, helped the clean up crews following the tornado which leveled the Manitou Beach area. Other members attended various meetings of Kiwanis and the local chapter of Kiwanis assisted in the operation of Circle K.

The International Club

could be called the "Little United Nations." It is through this club that students of other countries, as well as the United States are brought closer together in world understanding. This year, members in the International Club include representatives from Canada, England, Greece, Hong Kong, Iran, Korea, Nigeria, Thailand, and the United States including the newest state Hawaii.

Highlighting the year's activities, the International Club visited the University of Michigan to attend the "World's Fair". At the fair, which consisted of displays, talent shows and informal gatherings; the club members conceived the idea for the Showplace of the Nations, which was held on campus on May 6, 7.

Under the advisorship of Mr. Hoffman, these students spoke and demonstrated their talents before various service clubs. Plans were formulated this year for the International Club to make more good-will trips.

The Student Education

Association is perhaps one of the largest groups on the campus. Membership in this organization gives each student a voice in the Michigan and National Student Education Association. Throughout the year plans were formulated for the first annual "Future Teachers Day," which was held on the campus, March 31. Future teachers from area public schools were invited to the campus, where they had an opportunity to review some highlights of college life. They were welcomed by Dr. Dawson and other members of the administration and faculty. They were given an opportunity to visit various classes, to witness the teacher education program at Adrian.

As a member of the Student Education Association, Lynn Salisbury was elected secretary of the state organization. During American Education Week, several members of SEA furthered the cause by presenting speeches over radio station, WABJ. All the speeches and talks were built around the theme, "Education Pays Dividends". Their monthly meetings center on professional improvement, including: guest speakers, educational films, mock interviews, audiovisual techniques and other educational material.

The German Club, which remained on 'Status Quo' during the past year held one meeting, at which officers were elected. From that point, interest in the club waned. Dr. Rodeck, the new advisor, had the added difficulty of adjusting to a new school and this extra duty. However, hope is not abandoned. When school commences in September, the club plans to reorganize and stimulate interest among the incoming freshmen, as well as the upperclassmen. The projects this year were limited, but the club would like to cultivate campus interest in German culture and the German language.

The French Club exists on the Adrian College campus to serve the students who have an interest in all the French speaking countries. Their meetings are conducted in such a manner, as to help understand the French culture. Although, the French Club is just getting started on the Adrian campus, it met regularly on Tuesday evenings, to conduct business and to hold educational programs.

Among their outstanding programs, during the past year was Dr. MacNaughton's presentation of slides on a recent trip to France and Gary Marsh, a member of the Peace Corps, who spoke on a French province in Africa. The French Club assisted the International Club in the presentation of the International Fair, which was conducted in the Union, the weekend of May 8. Chris Plassman was the appointed chairman, to construct and present a display on France. Membership in this club is open to any person interested in the French way of life.

The Political Science Club provides an opportunity for students to meet and share experiences and contrasting ideas relevant to the internal mechanism found in various forms of government. These political minded students compare the governmental activities and practices of various parties under the advisorship of several faculty members of the Political Science Department. They also study the trends in world happenings, and seek areas of common understanding for the club, the college and the country.

Home Economics has long been a humble profession. The Home Economics Club has held its place of rank on the Adrian Campus through the years. The club is probably closer knit than any of the other campus organizations, in-as-much as, most of the members meet for regular class periods in the Tobias House.

The chapter held an annual Christmas dinner and tea, in addition to their May picnic. Like many of the other organizations, the Home Economics Club needs money to operate; and their major project was to keep the athletic program in "stitches", by mending their torn uniforms. In April, the club invited a number of underprivileged children from the Girl's Training School to a party.

Recipe for the Homemaker

Start with an open mind, willing hands and a desire for understanding. Blend two cups of creativity, one T. of perspiration, a dash of humor, two T. humility. Stir in 1/2 cup each of kindness and generosity. Pour into an eight inch baking dish greased well with joy and place in a pre-heated heart and bake throughout life. Ice with an abundance of Love.

Republicans on campus are organized into the Adrian College Young Republicans Club. Its ultimate goal is to stimulate Adrian College students to think about their political affiliations. Of course, they hope that the Adrian College students will line themselves with the Republican Party. Students who are in the Young Republicans' Club, have the opportunity to express themselves politically on many current issues. As part of their interest in democracy, the club collects, analyzes and discusses many State and National political issues. They also assist the local Republican Headquarters by distributing campaign materials. This year the College Republican State Activities Board met on the Adrian College campus and the Adrian Chapter served as host. A delegation of Adrian College students were sent to Lansing and the State Republican Convention.

The Young Democrats club

organized on Adrian College campus during the Autumn. Perhaps, its organizing was due to the fall campaign and the ensuing victory of the Democratic Presidential candidate. Members of the club worked along with the local Democrats in sponsoring an all out voter registration drive; they also assisted in the distribution of campaign literature and helped canvass the area. The Young Democrats' Club claim partial credit for the largest Democratic vote on record for the city of Adrian, which influenced the election of the Democratic Congressman, as well as the state and national nominees. On November 3, the club helped sponsor an election return center in Peelle Hall of Science. Many students watched the election results on television, with the fellowship of both Republicans and Democrats. Although, this was their first year on campus, the Young Democrats generated enthusiasm; and all indications point to continued campus success in disseminating the Democratic viewpoint on major issues to Adrian College students and faculty.

Lambda Iota Tau, in its simplest form, is a literary honorary society open to superior English majors and minors. It seeks to offer these students an opportunity for informal discussion of literary subjects that may arise from both their classes and their individual reading. It hopes, in other words, to be an outlet for the intellectually restless student. To meet this goal, LIT held a discussion of the poetry of Mr. Donald Kummings, one of Adrian's English instructors, a discussion that was partially a study of the evolution of a poet. The group's activities also included meetings on the "theater of the absurd" and a trip to an Ann Arbor dramatic production.

Both the LIT Film Series and a sequence of all-campus book discussions are the result of the desire to create a wide-spread interest in literature of all types. For both its own members and the entire campus, LIT published Volume I, Number I of a creative writing magazine, Oblique.

Theta Alpha Phi consists of a core of Adrian College theater students. These students have literally been in the spotlight, and deserve their place in the Adrian College showcase. To become members of this National Honorary Fraternity of the Theater Arts, one must have contributed his time and talents to the escalation of the Adrian College theater program. Their purpose for existing is to stimulate interest, creativeness and artistic ability relevant to the theater program. During their back-stage program, which was held in the Fall, Theta Alpha Phi members exhibited to new students the different areas of the auditorium and different phases of the theater productions; such as make-up, scenery building, light control, sound system and pin rail. They concluded the open-house with excerpts of previous plays.

Alpha Chi completed its first year on the Adrian

College campus, by recognizing academically superior students at an impressive candlelight ceremony held on May 14, at Ritchie Dining Center. The organization, which was founded last year, has ideals which were symbolically portrayed in the candlelight ritual. The initials of the Greek Altheia and Xrakater mean truth and character. Those two virtues well symbolized in the society's official colors, sapphire blue, depicting truth, and emerald green, victory. The Alpha Chi motto is "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Judith Ann Moore, vice-president of Alpha Chi on campus, was awarded the national Alpha Chi scholarship for outstanding achievement among underclass members of the society. Eight juniors and five seniors were initiated into the honorary society this year.

The Women's Recreation

Association members zealously cry, "We won." This is a familiar sound, in Ridge Gymnasium in winter months, on Tuesday and Thursday nights. WRA is open to all Adrian College students and is responsible for the women's intramural program. The specific aim of this organization is to improve recreational opportunities, further interest in women's athletics and promote better school spirit.

One of the activities of WRA is to set up intramural and extramural schedules. Another familiar cry of WRA women is "Popcorn, anyone," as they sell refreshments at all home football and basketball games.

In September WRA sponsored a picnic for the members and guests. Throughout the year, they also hold record hops in the Union. The main annual social event of WRA is the "Bid Dance", which is a "Turn about Dance", open to all students.

had its origin in the home of Dr. MacNaughton early in November. This professional group of all Adrian College students majoring in history was founded on the basis of an informal atmosphere. At the regular monthly meetings, held on Sunday nights, the club holds informal fireside chats in the homes of department faculty members. Two of their outstanding programs this past year included movies shown by Mr. Edward Pellowe on the reenactment movies of the Antietam Civil War Battle. Mr. Pellowe is an active member of the Civil War Round Table in Adrian and a member of the college staff. The second program worth remembering for some time was one sponsored by the club, hosting Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cutler. The Cutlers presented a color slide presentation of their recent trip to Greece.

The typewriter is more than it appears to be. It is a symbol of work and blood which goes into publishing this book.

Proofreading is a must when so many names are involved and everyone wants his name spelled correctly.

The 1965 MOUND was published by a handful of Adrian College students whose sole reward was the satisfaction of seeing the fruit of their work being placed in the hands of 1300 people in September. Each year through the combined efforts of these select students and the Office of Special Services, the story of the year is told through the effective use of words and pictures. A step forward was made this past year by securing space outside the Administration Building to work on the MOUND. This year they made use of a room in North Hall which they shared with the College World. By using the office, more participation was enjoyed by the key staff members. By working on the MOUND these few students gained an insight into what goes into the publication of a major publication. For the first time this year the MOUND had their own student photographer who also had a darkroom set up in Peele Hall of Science. This new service aided the MOUND staff in presenting a fuller picture of happenings on the campus during the year. Anyone interested in photojournalism may petition to work on the MOUND staff. The major problem of the staff this year was securing cooperation of students and staff. In spite of this handicap the MOUND rated third in Michigan for layout and third for best photo essay.

The staff produces "An outstanding small newspaper in an outstanding small college in the Mid-West."

The College World, which is the student voice on campus, celebrated its 75th anniversary this year by producing a regular edition, every other Thursday. The College World is unique to this campus, in that it is produced by a class, rather than individuals working on their own. Mr. Lee Pettitjean, a reporter for the Adrian Daily Telegram, conducted the class, much the same way a professional newspaper conducts its staff. Jim Rink, who is a senior, served as Editor for both semesters. He has worked for the past three years for the Adrian Daily Telegram, and was recognized as a competent editor by the English Department. Major events, sponsored by the College World, included a mock election, held in the fall, which predicted the landslide victory of Johnson and Romney.

Newspaper galleys are marked for identification and are later dummied prior to returning the paper to the printer.

Staff members wait for their assignments from the advisor, Mr. Pettitjean and editor, Jim Rink.

Psi Sigma Rho actives lead new pledges in a cheer.

Women gather in the union after bids are received.

The Alpha Tau Omegas welcome their new pledges in the union.

It all starts here — Greek life, that is with the conclusion of Rush Week, when bids are accepted, the young man or woman enters a new world. They are suddenly surrounded by brothers or sisters who are anxious to share their fraternal life.

Almost 50 percent of Adrian's student body belongs to a fraternity or sorority and these Greek organizations benefit the College in many ways. Besides sponsoring social events, a large part of Adrian's public relations is dealt with through fraternities and sororities. Each organization aids some kind of charity during Christmas or Easter holidays.

The Greeks are a very important part of the friendly atmosphere created on the college campus and will continue to be an influential factor at Adrian for a long time to come.

The Alpha Phi actives serenaded their new pledges in Estes Hall.

The Interfraternity

Council is the mortar that cements all the fraternities on the Adrian campus into a strong body. It is the governing force throughout which rules and regulations of fraternities are formulated. They also help to unite the Greek system and the independents through sponsored dances and social activities. With the cooperation of Panhellenic Council, I.F.C. conducted a barbecue, carnival and dance early in the year. Under the sponsorship of Dr. Howard Emrick, I.F.C. and Panhellenic conducted a door-to-door drive for the Adrian United Fund campaign. I.F.C. set their standards high and raised the requirements for pledging from a 1. average to a 1.2 average. This rule will become effective in September, 1965. In a report put out by the I.F.C., it was stated that: "Emphasis has been placed on social activities and sports. The fraternities have failed in taking the lead in scholastic excellence." Thus it is hoped that the new ruling will attract scholars.

Throughout the next few years, the I.F.C. hopes to improve rushing methods now being used. They also hope to unite the fraternities through combining projects thus de-emphasizing the strong competitive positions now being experienced.

The Panhellenic Council of Adrian College is the Sorority counter-part of the Interfraternity Council. This organization of Greek women strives to stimulate scholastic and social achievements among the four recognized, social sororities on campus. All the Greek women are, by rights, members of the Panhellenic Council, but are represented by two members of each sorority. This group represents about 40% of all Adrian College women and serves to govern themselves. Their part, in the Adrian College showcase, is one of establishing and enforcing the rushing and pledging procedure to which all sororities must adhere. Joining forces with the Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic sponsored the first annual Greek weekend held in September. This event was used to unite the Greeks and to promote better understanding among the entire student body.

During the month of March, over two thousand Tootsie Pops were sold by all members of the Panhellenic system. This represented each girl selling ten lollipops for a price of ten-cents each. Proceeds from this combined effort are to be used for the publication of the rush booklet for next year.

Although every sorority girl's first loyalty is to her pin and sorority, she recognizes the importance of a higher group body—the Panhellenic System.

This year saw the Tau Kappa Epsilon's spending their second year in their new house on Maumee Street and insisting that all their pledges spend each Saturday morning cleaning and improving the house in preparation for the arrival of a new house-mother in September. The year was begun by helping the Freshman women move into the dormitories. Then taking advantage of the Christmas spending spirit TKE men sold candy and held a Christmas Tree sale from which they cleared $450. Using some of their hard-earned money, they spread the Christmas joy with a party for underprivileged children suggested by the Salvation Army.

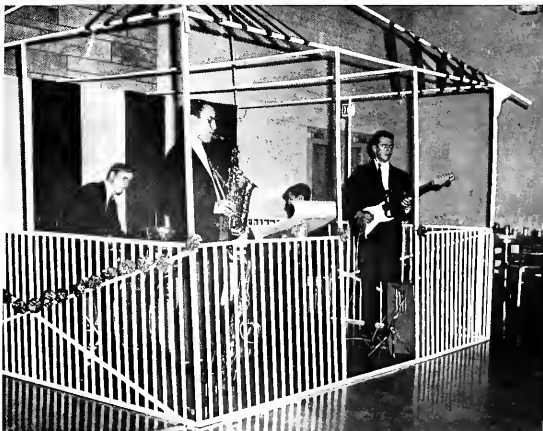

The TKE's held their first all-college "Red Carnation Ball" in Ritchie Dining Hall and decided to make it an annual affair. At the Greek Carnival their booth brought in more revenue than any of the other displays with their "Wheel of Fortune." The men also participated in the United Fund Drive, many of the intermural activities and the All-College Sing. In an attempt to improve chapter scholarship, the men held regular study sessions in Shipman Library while waiting for their study room to be completed. Brother Jim Tyrell contributed to the chapter by making their Coat of Arms from inlaid wood, consisting of twelve different kinds of wood. The National president said that a picture of the finished work would be placed on the cover of their national magazine.

The TKE's are helpful.

enjoyed a year filled with a great number of social events. In the fall the Tri Sigma women participated in formal rush and Homecoming. Later they joined other Greek organizations in sponsoring the Greek Carnival. Perhaps their biggest social activity of the year was a spring formal which was held May 8, in the Park Lane Hotel in Toledo. The Tri Sigma women sponsored a rummage sale which netted $160.00. This project was made possible through the efforts of their alumni chapter. Proceeds from the rummage sale were used to send Vice President, Sharon Holstrom, to New York City for the Tri Sigma Convention. Their pledges were active in selling hot dogs in an attempt to raise money for the Robbie Page Memorial. This Memorial project is a nation wide service project by all chapters. Robbie Page was the son of a past national president of Tri Sigma and who died from bulbar polio at the age of five. In his memory the women are raising funds for a children's room at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Another money raising project used to support the Robbie Page Memorial was a parcel-post auction. This auction was one where an alumni would mail a package to the active chapter who in turn auctioned the package, unopened, to the highest bidder. This endeavor of raising money became meaningful to the women following the campus visitation of Mrs. Page.

The Tri Sigmas took their new pledges to the union.

returned to Adrian College campus in October, determined to make a new name for themselves. During the summer, all necessary arrangements were made for changing the name from American Commons Club to its present Theta Chi. The group formally became the Zeta Beta chapter of Theta Chi on October 24, 1964. The Adrian chapter became the 140th chapter in the United States and the 5th in Michigan. The day's activities were climaxed at a 6:00 P.M. banquet.

The motto of Theta Chi, "Alma Mater first, and Theta Chi for Alma Mater," brought the campus community into a closer relationship. Theta Chi men participated in the Greek carnival and spent many hours on their homecoming display, "When Bulldogs Raid, Hope Goes Down." Like many Greek groups, Theta Chi held a traditional Christmas party and carolled the Women's Dormitories and various social agencies in town. Theta Chi entered at least one team in nearly every sport in the intermural program. Their bowling team won its league championship for its second consecutive year, and as a chapter, they earned the scholarship cup for 1964, for maintaining above average scholarship.

At intermission, a number of awards were presented to outstanding actives and pledges. As luck

They also held a number of fashion shows with clothes furnished by the Town and Country Shop of Gordons and jewelry from Berndts. They participated in the Greek Week Carnival and had fun in their "Fun House." Nancy Curry and Carol Hicks

They have existed in Adrian, since being established in 1887, and are the third oldest chapter north of the Mason-Dixon Line. The activities of SAE are chiefly social. Among their list of accomplishments, SAE reports a successful spring formal, many closed house parties, and several campus wide events. The brotherhood aspect, of their creed, was exemplified as they participated in the United Fund campaign. In the season of Christmas and the spirit of goodwill, they entertained underprivileged children of the Adrian area at their traditional Christmas party. Although, it is always nice to win, members of SAE feel that participation in the intramural program is more meaningful than any trophy. They entered every contest of Mr. Gillis' program. They also, actively support the beliefs of student government and the inter-fraternity council.

Alpha Sigma Alpha is the newest sorority on the Adrian College campus. It colonized on October 8, 1964 after several years of being known as Beta Psi Zeta. The women were active in campus affairs and participated in nearly all the Greek sponsored activities including the Greek Carnival where they sponsored the Balloon Bust and the canvassing of Adrian for the United Fund campaign. The women were able to secure a meeting room in Cargo Hall where they planned a limited number of social events. Their major social activity was their spring formal which was held May 15 at the Irish Hills Ski Lodge. At their national activation in February, Alpha Sigma Alpha women were honored to have their national officers in Adrian, as well as representatives from nearby chapters. Their major project for serving the community was working with the mentally retarded children in Adrian.

Alpha Tau Omega is a brotherhood with " . . . no narrower limits than the outlines of the world." This year the men of Alpha Tau Omega celebrated its 100th anniversary. Alpha Mu of Adrian is the oldest chapter north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Among their campus activities, ATO captured the first place homecoming award for their display "Adrian give Hope the 23 Skiddoo." This is the fourth straight year that Alpha Tau Omega received the distinction. They also were winners in the best over-all campus display category. They entered a team in nearly every intermural event and captured the first place position in football, volleyball and archery. The nineteen pledges received during formal rush were a great help to the members when it came time to clean the house for their many house parties. Services did not stop with campus projects; instead the ATO men assisted in the United Fund drive, collected clothes for Goodwill Industry and gave charity baskets to needy families at Christmas time.

The Taus set aside part of one of their many closed parties for social singing with their dates.

will long remember the little red "shack" at the corner of Madison and College. Their year started last summer as a group of these Adrian coeds attended their National Convention in Colorado Springs. The Alpha "Phi-Esta" booth at the Greek-Weekend Carnival drew a number of interested students. Lights could be seen in the "house" every night before Homecoming as the Phi's worked on their display, The Tea-Pot Dome Scandal, "Hope's in Hot Water." Sisters Beth Emrick and Carol Sullins represented them on the Homecoming court. Once again the girls honored their families with the annual Parent's Day Get-Together and later in the year they visited the Maple Lane

Manor. During the semester, Beth Emrick was chosen "best dressed coed" on Adrian's campus for a national contest. Funds to cover the Phi Hootenanny were raised by selling ice-cream and candy as well as holding a car wash. Funds left over were used to underwrite the cost of the "Old Fashioned Christmas Dance" and other social events. The Alpha Phi's were visited by their District Governor, Mrs. Giltrow and their Field Secretary, Sabanna Tucker.

Spring semester brought with it All-College Sing and several of the sisters represented their chapter at the district convention at Purdue University. The highlight of the year was the Spring Formal which was held at The Inn America in Ann Arbor.

Pi Kappa Alpha and the school year began with the fraternity existing under the local status of Psi Sigma Rho. Existing under this name, the brothers began an extensive search for the National that was the best. After this investigation the brothers chose Pi Kappa Alpha and were colonized on May 1, 1965, exactly two years after their formation.

During the school year the brothers participated in many school activities. These activities included: Homecoming, with the theme being based around the stock market crash of 1929; Intramurals; Greek welcome day; and the United Fund torch drive. The brothers also sponsored many closed parties, one of which was a Christmas party for underprivileged children in the area. The brothers also sponsored a car wash, which was a huge success.

Previous to the school year the brothers acquired the East wing of their house at 1324 Williams, which was previously an apartment for "Mom" Shipman. Following this addition several improvements were made on the house. The brothers also acquired a mascot, Pike, which they named in honor of their affiliation with the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The crowning event of the social calendar for the brothers was their Spring Formal, which was held at the Aku Aku in Toledo with Miss Barb Holben being crowned the Dream Girl of the fraternity.

Following the installation of Pi Kappa Alpha, the men of Psi Sigma Rho remove their colonization emblem.

Thane Grams relinquishes his post as president following the May initiation.

OFF TO A GOOD START!

Congratulations Adrian College Graduates!
You're off to a good start on the road to success and your diploma is the passport to the career of your choice.

As you go forth to new adventures, we at Consumers Power Company offer you best wishes for a successful future.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

OF FUNDS
AT ADRIAN FEDERAL

in addition to generous earnings for saving!

● Get into the profitable habit of savings—where savings earn generous returns with maximum safety of funds.

While our sound management policies, strong reserves and 76 years of "never a dividend missed—never a dime of savings lost since founding" does safeguard your savings fully,—Adrian Federal's membership in the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation provides an extra measure of protection. It means that this association meets the exacting standards of competence required by this permanent federal agency to insure your savings up to $10,000.

Isn't this the protection you want at the same time your savings are growing faster to build a better future? Open your insured account now!

Savings Insured Safe up to $10,000

Advisor's Comments on the 1965 MOUND

For the past 175 pages the MOUND staff has attempted to record, with pictures and words, the activities and events of the 1965 school year. This page was reserved to give special thanks and recognition to those persons who helped put this publication into your hands. We hereby submit this book for your enjoyment and as a record of your college days at Adrian.

THE LAST WORD

Today is June 25, 1965, four weeks since the last Adrian College student departed for summer fun, work or more study. When the school books were closed there were over 100 pages of this book to be completed for publication. It meant working day and night in order that you might receive this book at the opening of school. Many times I asked myself, "If this is truly a student publication why, why must the advisor spend his summer doing student work?" It would have been easy to say, "Too bad, I am sorry, but the book isn't printed." But, I have seen the joy on the faces of countless students and faculty members as they view the MOUND for the first time in the fall. It is rewarding to hear people say, "It doesn't look like me," or "I didn't know they took that picture." These comments and others served as the stimulus, driving me to complete the book for your enjoyment. My special thanks to a few devoted students who "stuck it out" to the end and to my wife who was so understanding because of the long hours required in the MOUND office every night. At any rate, it is my sincere desire that you have enjoyed reading this book and I hope you will use it for more than a dust collector.

SPECIAL THANKS TO

Taylor Publishing Company and their representatives, Lee Zimmerman and Ed McMeans, for their help and assistance when it was needed most.

Cooney Studios who helped us out of a bind near the end of the year when we needed pictures in a hurry.

Office of Special Services secretaries who ungrudgingly helped with the typing and handling office affairs while the advisor was working on the MOUND.

The following students who devoted countless hours to the goal of completing this book: Carol Plotts, editor; Bob Cleveland, advertising manager; and Ruth Hitchens, organizational editor and proofreader.
